

The little things in life

By: Anvita Bangalore

I am hopeful because the world is full of wonder,
From the mountains up high to the oceans down under.
There are people who care and are working for change,
From small acts of kindness to movements that rearrange.

I am hopeful because we have the power to create,
To build and innovate, to love and to relate.
We can learn from our past and strive for a better way,
To make a brighter future that we can all say.

I am hopeful because there is beauty all around,
In the simple things we see, in the love we have found.
And even when things are tough and the road is rough,
We can hold onto hope and know that we are enough.

So let us keep pushing forward, with hope in our hearts,
And work together to create a world that imparts.
A brighter, kinder, and more just place for all,
Where hope is not just a dream, but a reality we call.
